RESIDENT LANDOWNER PRIVILEGES

West Virginia resident landowners may hunt on their own land without obtaining a license. See definition of resident landowner privileges on page 8.

A resident landowner hunting on his/her own land without a license can take the same number of deer as a licensed hunter. A hunter (licensee or landowner) cannot take more than the number of deer allowed in the respective seasons.

After killing a deer as a landowner, a person cannot take another deer by use of a license for which the privilege has already been used. Example - if a landowner has a Class X or A license and kills an antlered deer on his own land during buck season, the landowner cannot use the Class X or A license to kill another buck during the buck season. He/she can check the deer in as a landowner kill or on the Class X or A license. Either way, the Class X or A privilege to kill an antlered deer during the buck season has been used.

RESIDENT AND NONRESIDENT LICENSE PRIVILEGES WITH A CLASS DT SPECIAL HUNTING AND FISHING LICENSE FOR PERSONS WITH A LIFE-THREATENING CONDITION

A resident or nonresident under age 21, who qualifies for and obtains a Class DT license, may hunt for and take the legal number of deer allowed in each season in compliance with county and statewide regulations without purchasing or otherwise obtaining any additional licenses or stamps, providing the Class DT license holder and assistant must abide by all other pertinent laws and regulations.
